A play whose story is based on theory is liable to become tiresome unless well handled. "The End of the World," released through the National Motion Picture Service, is that rare article—a well handled theoretical play. It depicts with a great deal of realism the destruction of the world by a comet. There is plenty of swift action throughout the entire six reels, and such thrills that make you sit on the edge of your chair wondering what will happen next. Its thrilling climax is built up gradually and surely, and when earth and comet meet, when flames and smoke obscure every object, when waters become ungovernable and lightning streaks the sky it will bring a gasp from your audience.

The settings are very well selected with a view to typical scenes. There appears the little mining town, the old tavern dance, the stock exchange, the luxurious home of Harper, owner of the mines, and beautiful views of water scenery. The photography is good. No detail in the direction was overlooked, and there were some very good lightning effects.

Emma Thomsen and Charles Zimmerman played the leading roles. The names of the other members of the cast are not given, but their work was very well done.

HIGHLY SPECTACULAR REELS
make National Motion Picture Service six part production an exceptional offering.

To foresee the end of the world as some pessimistic soul does every once in a while, is no doubt to imagine a cosmic catastrophe not unlike that depicted in this wonderful six reel drama. Humanity is literally swept from the face of the earth by an irresistible combination of devastating elements. With flames shooting from the sky to burn all the habitations of man and earthquakes moving the ocean into unaccustomed places, one is offered a choice between death by fire and water—nothing more. The only known survivors of the day that a reckless comet collided with the world, are the hero and the heroine.

As a spectacle, this production scores emphatically and the impression left by the overwhelming calamity depicted, is made stronger by reason of the preparations in the earlier scenes. Excitement is worked up to a high pitch before the skys release a shower of fire. Men, women and children in helpless hundreds flee from the flames and floods. "THE END OF THE WORLD" is a very passable story, ably acted, especially by Emma Thomsen in the leading role.

"Spectacular stuff" of exceptional interest and exceptionally well produced. The end of the world is to be accomplished by collision with a comet, a perfectly logical premise, for every generation has had its "comet scare" and scientists agree that a collision between the earth and a comet is by no means an impossibility.

Such a catastrophe would be spectacular to the nth power. In this film the possibilities for unusual photographs have been seized upon and well utilized. The producers appear to have spared no time, expense or labor in creating vastness of atmosphere and view, and not only do they show us the comet in the sky, growing brighter, larger and closer with each day, but on the night of the catastrophe we see a rain of fiery fragments, meteors, aerolites, and what not, with lightning, a great tidal wave and a storm at sea, wherein full-sized freighters wallow helplessly in their yeasty beds.

The cast has been well selected and the entire atmosphere of the picture is of the convincing sort.

"THE END OF THE WORLD"
Released by National Motion Picture Service.

Nicely connected with the story containing interesting incidents and characters, the huge fire and flood scenes which make "THE END OF THE WORLD" a spectacular production of exceptional appeal, certainly were not staged, and they are used to depict the fanciful idea on which this picture is based. The flood and conflagration are the outcome of disturbances caused by the proximity of a comet to the earth. Experience will only tell just what would happen if a comet came in contact with the earth, but we are perfectly willing to listen to the speculations of astronomers and see them depicted on the motion picture screen. Our curiosity is not great enough to make us long to see the real thing. "THE END OF THE WORLD" is a National Motion Picture Service release and is excellent in taste and technique in the matters of settings and photography. The romance is interesting and gives more strength to the scenes of fire and flood. The exterior scenes showing the comet in the sky are indeed remarkable.

"THE END OF THE WORLD"
Reviewed by Harvey F. Thew.

"Spectacular stuff" of exceptional interest and exceptionally well produced. The end of the world is to be accomplished by collision with a comet, a perfectly logical premise, for every generation has had its "comet scare" and scientists agree that a collision between the earth and a comet is by no means an impossibility.

Such a catastrophe would be spectacular to the nth power. In this film the possibilities for unusual photographs have been seized upon and well utilized. The producers appear to have spared no time, expense or labor in creating vastness of atmosphere and view, and not only do they show us the comet in the sky, growing brighter, larger and closer with each day, but on the night of the catastrophe we see a rain of fiery fragments, meteors, aerolites, and what not, with lightning, a great tidal wave and a storm at sea, wherein full-sized freighters wallow helplessly in their yeasty beds.

"THE END OF THE WORLD"
Released by National Motion Picture Service.

Nicely connected with the story containing interesting incidents and characters, the huge fire and flood scenes which make "THE END OF THE WORLD" a spectacular production of exceptional appeal, certainly were not staged, and they are used to depict the fanciful idea on which this picture is based. The flood and conflagration are the outcome of disturbances caused by the proximity of a comet to the earth. Experience will only tell just what would happen if a comet came in contact with the earth, but we are perfectly willing to listen to the speculations of astronomers and see them depicted on the motion picture screen. Our curiosity is not great enough to make us long to see the real thing. "THE END OF THE WORLD" is a National Motion Picture Service release and is excellent in taste and technique in the matters of settings and photography. The romance is interesting and gives more strength to the scenes of fire and flood. The exterior scenes showing the comet in the sky are indeed remarkable.

In 1843 and again in 1880 much discussion and no little excitement and apprehension was raised in the minds of the people by the appearance of a comet, and many thought that it meant "THE END OF THE WORLD."

A tremendous story, filled with excitement and action—"THE END OF THE WORLD."

Since the dawn of civilization man has ever pondered on when and what would be "THE END OF THE WORLD."

A story of unusual interest, containing characters taken from life amid scenes of huge fires and engulfing floods, make "THE END OF THE WORLD" a spectacular production of exceptional appeal.

The vast machinery of the universe is to us unknown, yet we may reasonably suppose that some time, who can say when, "THE END OF THE WORLD" will come.

The insane frenzy of thousands fighting for their lives amid a rain of fire marks the great catastrophe in "THE END OF THE WORLD."
